6 pm: Festival Caravan exhibit, reception with food and drink, and premiere of documentary

Come explore a former Denver tradition called Festival Caravan! Henry Lowenstein and the Bonfils Theatre produced Festival Caravan from 1973 to 1985 as an outdoor summer series performed on a portable stage that traveled to various Denver parks. The goal of Festival Caravan was to expose Denver residents to diverse performing arts and cross cultural divides within Denver neighborhoods. The documentary includes interviews with David, Daniel, and Josh Lowenstein, Cleo Parker Robinson, Frederick Glick (former Bonfils stage hand), Buddy Butler (former Bonfils director), and Tony Garcia (Artistic Director of Su Teatro).

The Festival Caravan exhibit is on display beginning June 15 through November 2017 on the lower level of the Anderson Academic Commons.
